ZARA UNVEILS ITS NEW NANJING XINJIEKOU FLAGSHIP STORE, FEATURING THE FIRST ZACAFFÈ IN ASIA

Nanjing, March 20th

The new store presents the brand’s latest concept in the popular Nanjing Xinjiekou area, housed in an innovative two-storey establishment spanning over 2,500 square meters.

This flagship location unveils a host of groundbreaking innovations, featuring Asia’s inaugural Zacaffè and the first automated clothing transportation system. Also making their global debut, the store introduces a dedicated Fit Check zone, self-service vending machines, and an exclusive Zara Salon—each designed to elevate the shopping experience to new heights of convenience and personalization.

Zara is proud to present the opening of its new flagship store in the heart of Nanjing's Xinjiekou Commercial Street. Nanjing beautifully blends its historic charm with modern vibrancy. This new Zara store reflects that fusion, offering customers a unique shopping experience that integrates innovative design, cutting-edge technology, and the first-ever Zacaffè in Asia.

Eugenio Bregolat, President of Inditex Greater China, stated that the Chinese market has always been a strategic market for Inditex. «The Nanjing Xinjiekou flagship store is not only a new space showcasing the brand's latest retail concepts and innovative experiences but also a significant milestone in deepening Inditex's presence in the Chinese market and strengthening its connection with local consumers. Moving forward, Inditex and Zara will continue to invest deeply in the Chinese market, committed to innovating retail experiences, closely following and leading local fashion trends, and actively injecting vitality into the domestic market, growing alongside the Chinese market.»

The Nanjing Xinjiekou flagship is the latest expression of Zara’s store model: a commercial concept based on large flagship stores with a refreshed image and dynamic product displays. Carefully curated spaces with distinctive design elements and high-quality furniture highlight Zara’s collections, fostering a deeper connection between the brand and its customers.

Spanning over 2,500 square meters of commercial space across two floors, the store offers a range of experiences for both Women’s and Men’s collections. Its architecture showcases a harmonious façade crafted from a single material that wraps around the building’s complex shape, transforming it into a sleek and elegant presence in the urban landscape. With a transparent glass façade, an expansive staircase linking the two floors, carefully curated urban furniture, and an extended canopy, the Zara Xinjiekou store fosters a deep connection with its surrounding, enhancing the interplay between the space and its vibrant environment. Inside, the store features a seamless blend of elements, from sophisticated dark wood paneling to industrial-style stone interiors and stainless-steel corridors. Bricks play a key role in the store’s design, particularly in the staircase entrance and the shoes and bags section, adding texture and character to the modern retail space.

INNOVATING THE CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

Zara’s Nanjing flagship incorporates the latest technological advancements to seamlessly integrate physical and online shopping. Customers can interact with Zara's online platform to check the location of items in-store, browse online in a store of their choice, check availability, or place an order online for in-store pickup within two hours.

The space also features dedicated checkouts for returns, a customer service desk, and an advanced assisted checkout area, all designed to streamline the shopping experience. An automated clothing transportation system, visible through a glazed wall, further enhances efficiency, quickly processing clothing organization and allowing staff to focus on delivering exceptional service.

A dedicated showroom space on the first floor, named Zara Salon, offers an exclusive experience focused on limited-edition collections. With private changing rooms and personalized, pre-booked styling services, this space enhances the customer experience by showcasing key pieces of the collection in a charming, domestic-style setting. Another thoughtful addition on the second floor, Zara Fit Check, allows customers to enjoy self-styling freedom, professional studio-grade video recording, and instant access to their videos, enabling them to create lasting mementos of their fashion choices and express their unique style.

For the first time globally, Zara has introduced clothing vending machines, offering more flexible shopping options. Stocked with a selection of t-shirts for both men and women, these machines allow customers to make direct purchases, enhancing autonomy and convenience.

ADSB x ZARA

This new store features a special collection developed in collaboration with contemporary design brand Andersson Bell, blending punk-inspired elements with modern design. The collection includes trompe-l'oeil prints, patchwork, and textural finishes, with highlights including a designer-favorite leather jacket, cotton flannel shirts with denim-effect prints, and sculpted knitwear. Accessories like a guitar-shaped mini bag and studded denim tote capture the collection's raw, creative energy. With the phrase “Absolute Beginner” nodding to David Bowie and the spirit of youthful exploration, this collaboration embraces fearlessness and innovation, offering a fresh perspective on fashion design.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Zara Nanjing introduces, for the first time in the city, Zara Origins—a collection designed to build a contemporary wardrobe through key, timeless pieces. With a focus on creating perfected models made from the finest materials and with a high level of experience and expertise, Zara Origins brings a refined approach to modern fashion. Additionally, the Seoul Edition collection will launch on opening day, inspired by the vibrant streetwear culture of Seoul. Featuring a mix of oversized silhouettes and coordinated sets, this collection celebrates both contemporary street style and effortless sophistication, with green as a key color throughout, marking the arrival of spring. The store will also debut the 90s Archive menswear limited-edition collection, showcasing minimalist, timeless designs, including denim pieces and suede outerwear, along with nautical-inspired stripes.

SHOES & BAGS

The store boasts an exclusive space on the second floor, dedicated entirely to footwear and accessories, offering personalized assistance to create a unique shopping experience. This concept highlights the most special pieces of the collection in the same space, including leather products, elevating the presentation and enhancing the customer journey. At the same time, the footwear and handbag collections will be available throughout the rest of the store, seamlessly complementing the clothing collections.

ZACAFFÈ

A standout feature of Zara Nanjing is the introduction of the first Zacaffè in Asia, a unique space developed by Art Recherche et Industrie, the design agency led by artist Ramdane Touhami. Drawing inspiration from traditional Chinese architecture, the space creates a silent dialogue between the modern establishment and the city's storied past. The Nanjing Zacaffè offers an intimate, culturally relevant environment, encompassed by reclaimed bricks and personalized ménage. The design is the result of a careful search for locally sourced materials and inspiration from local craftsmanship, an exploration of the area's historical roots, and conversations with the locals. While the immaculate interior reflects the brand's modernity, the structure and cladding are crafted from bricks recovered from various old buildings, evoking memories of the city's past, hidden deep within the passage of time. It provides the perfect space for customers to relax and unwind, creating a seamless fusion of retail and leisure.

ZARA x JUJUWANG

To celebrate the store’s opening, Zara has collaborated with contemporary artist JUJUWANG to present an art installation in the entrance hall. This immersive display features screens showcasing images inspired by the timeless Chinese flute piece "梅花三弄" (Three Variations on the Plum Blossom), accompanied by soothing traditional Chinese music, setting the tone for a culturally rich and visually captivating shopping experience. As the city flower of Nanjing, the plum blossom embodies profound local culture. Through this initiative, ZARA, with a subtle artistic expression, closely integrates fashion elements with the city's cultural heritage.

EFFICIENCY

Zara Nanjing operates some of the most advanced energy efficiency systems, a testament to Zara’s full commitment to sustainability. The measures adopted in this new store reflect this commitment and include high-efficiency heating and cooling systems, LED lighting for greater energy savings, and the use of materials with less environmental impact.

The store is also connected to our Inergy internal platform that centrally monitors the consumption of air conditioning and electrical equipment to optimize management, identify the most efficient systems, improve maintenance, and define strategies to reduce energy demand.

Zara works continuously to reduce the environmental impact of its teams' daily decision-making through a roadmap and milestones for the whole value chain. It also develops reuse and recycling programs to promote the circular economy and to reduce waste and the first-time consumption of raw materials.
